Under the keyword “industry 4.0” the fourth industrial revolution is being introduced. Consequently, the working world in German companies will also be transformed. German labour & employment law will change significantly. How can the projected changes be reflected by existing law? Which changes need to be made? And what is the actual meaning of “employment law 4.0”? Our first presentation will deal with this topic.

In the second part, the current situation of the new legislation of temporary work and service contracts will be presented. Companies are facing substantial restrictions according to the draft of the Federal Ministry for Labour and Social Affairs. What do you have to consider to be well prepared for the proposed amendments?

Afterwards you will have the opportunity to exchange ideas and opinions with colleagues from other companies and Reed Smith.
